INTRODUCTORY

The name of Cox appears in the Parish books at Canterbury, England, early in the 16th Century. It is a name of eminent respectability, well known from earliest history down to the present time. Its members through marriage are allied with the best families of London as shown in the numerous Parish records. Many of the other surnames in the Parish records at Canterbury, England, are identical with those of the early settlers of the Somer (Sommer, Summer) or Bermuda Islands. The whole group of islands was called Bermuda. The destruction of the early records, if any were kept at Bermuda, renders it impossible to exactly connect by date the Cox arrivals at Bermuda with the families at Canterbury, but there is no sort of doubt but that they are identical. In 1784 the will of Isaac Cox,

b. in Devonshire Parish, and who d. in 1776, at Philadelphia, Pa., was probated at Canterbury, abstract of which record may be found at (30) Isaac Cox.

The following records from St. Sepulchre Parish show the care and attention given to such matters in early days at Canterbury.

“John Cox of St. Sepulchre—London, Chandler, certifies to the death of Alice Rodes. widow of John Rodes of same parish—July 4. 1601.”

Record St Sepulchre.

“Richard Tynes * of St Mary Mounthawe, grocer. Aged about 27 years. bachelor, his father deceased one year since and his mother deceased twenty years since, and Ellen Millet, widow, of St. Andrews Holborn, Aged 30 years widow. of Thomas Millett, Yeoman, late of St. Andrews Etc.”

Record St Sepulchre—1602.

* His descendants still live in Bermuda.

Record St Sepulchre

“John Cox of St. Mary Woolnoth yeoman bachelor Aged 20. with consent of Thomas Cox linen draper, and Martha Standish of the same Parish, maiden, aged 20. dau of — Standish, late deceased, and she at the disposing of Anne Standish, her mother, at the parish aforesaid—Oct 27. 1630”

Rec St Sepulchres.

“John Okes of St Bartholomew the less. stationer, bachelor, Aged 31. and Mary Norwood of Sepulchres, Maiden, Aged 31. father and mother deceased, and she living with her uncle John Cox of the same parish, who is willing; at St. Sepulchres, or St Swithins near London Stone.”

The Bermudas were first discovered in 1515 by a Spanish vessel, called La-Garja commanded by Juan Bermudez. These islands were first introduced to the notice of the English by Henry May who was wrecked there Dec. 17, 1593, he being on his way to England in a French ship.

The Bermuda Company was chartered by “James by the Grace of God Kinge of Englande France and Irelande Defender of the Faith Ec. under the name of The Governor Companie of the Cittie of London for the Plantacon of the Somer Islands June 29, in the 13th years James.” The Bermuda Company was abolished during the year 1685, thereafter a Colony. The first Governor after the above date was Sir Robert Robinson who arrived April 12, 1687.

The first mention we have of the name in Bermuda is Edward Cox who was there Nov. 28, 1616.

In a book printed in 1620, by the Governor and Council of the Somer Islands, Richard Cox is given as one of the Adventurers.

In the records the following reference to Mr. Samuel Cox is given in its original quaint spelling.

In 1622 "A Catalague of wrongs and Injuries Comitted and done by Capt. Nathaniell Butler Governor of Sumer Islands unto the Comp in generall and to din^{rs} planters" etc. Article 22 reads as follows, "Hee letteth out boats to heir to bring downe Tobacco from the maine to the ship at extraordinarie rates, refused 20 lb. of Tobacco of Mr. Coxes man this yeare to bring down but a Tunne of caske wch is one per cent, and noe boat is lett for lesse than 10 lb." This reference is to Samuel Cox.

On Oct. 20, 1631, Samuel Cox was Reader for Smythes Tribe. (Parish).

Patrick Copeland under date Pagets-Tribe this 4th Decemb. 1639, writes a long letter "To the worthy and Hon^l Mr. John Winthrop, Governor of Boston in New England" in which he mentions "Capt. Cox our Cape-merchant," a resident of Bermuda who as was the custom in those days loaded his vessel with the produce of the islands and going to some northern port bartered away his cargo, for the various kinds of goods needed at Bermuda.

The traders from these islands seem to have dealt almost wholly with Charleston, S. C., and Philadelphia, Pa., with an occasional trip to Cape Cod, Massachusetts Bay and New York.

Roger Cox is a member of the Grand Inquest for Northampton Tribe in June, 1652.

Samuel Cox having died in 1655, the Bermuda Company order his effects delivered to his widow, Martha Cox, April 19, 1655.

In "The first survey of the Sommer Isles by Richard Norwood" in 1663, he was to make a plot of the Isle and divide it with as much faithfulness as he could, assigning to every adventurer his share or proportion, as namely, to lay out a large proportion, to be called the general land, and employed for public uses as for the Maintenance of the Governor, Ministers, Commanders of the Forts, Soldiers and such like and to this end was assigned St. George's Island; St. David's Island; Longbridge Island; Smith's Island; Cooper's Island; Cony Island; None-such Island; part of the main, and sundry small Isles. The rest was to be divided into eight parts, each part to be called a tribe and to have the name of some principal person that was Adventurer therein, and accordingly the first tribe to be eastward, was then called Bedfords Tribe, now Hamiltons; The second, Smiths; Tribe the Third Cavendish, now Devonshire; the fourth Pembrooks, the fifth Pagits; the sixth Mansils, now Warwicks; the seventh Southampton; the eighth Sanders. Again each of these Tribes were to be divided into fifty parts, called shares, and every Adventurer to have his shares in these Tribes as was determined by casting lots, each share was 25 acres.

By the original records of this survey in 1663, the real estate holdings of John Cox are described as follows:

“John Cox of Hamilton tribe (formerly Mr. Edward Luckin), a tenement and two shares of land in the occupation of Bartholomew Cotes. Abutting at ye south and uppon ye south side sea, and at ye north end uppon ye land of Capt. Williams. Lying betweene ye lands of ye Earle of Devonshire to ye eastward and the lands of Capt. Geo. Hubbart to ye westward Cont. per estimate 49 acres.” Share No. 11 in Devonshire Tribes.

Joseph Cox was one of 54 inhabitants to sign a complaint against the Bermuda Co. and were given a hearing July 30, 1679.

In an historical and statistical account of the Bermudas from their discovery to the present time by Wm. F. Williams, published in London, 1848, it says:

“A resolution was passed by the Governor and Council on the 4th of January, 1677, that all readers and clergymen should keep records of birth, marriages, and deaths for each parish, of which they were required to deposit certified copies with the Secretary at the end of each year.”

A foot-note referring to the above reads as follows: “There is some reason to think that these valuable documents were regularly transmitted to the Company in London, particularly as no vestige of them can now be found in the colony, and as this course was always pursued with papers of consequence. It is much to be regretted that this laudable rule had not been made a law of the land, as these important records have been, and are still, shamefully neglected.”

As an example of the hardships to which the early colonists were subject, history tells us that in 1666, colonists from the Bermudas went to New Providence and began a settlement there. In 1682 it was attacked and laid waste by the Spaniards. In the Mass. Archives C. X. X. II-83, 200, there are two petitions, signed by Jeremiah Dunmore and others. One to the President and Council filed Sept. 15, 1685, and one to Sir Edmund Andros, Governor, filed Jan. 6, 1686, reciting that the petitioners are the owners of a tract of land in Casco Bay called North Falmouth—"that in last July past they arrived at this town of Boston from Illutherea one of the Bermuda Islands." Many families having been spoiled by the Spaniards, of all they possessed, and driven off naked and destitute, that most of the "Distressed people" are willing to settle in Casco Bay, and they pray that some "wast and intergacent" lands and Islands at the head of the Bay may be added to the Township.

This petition was granted and about nine families were removed to Casco Bay. The new settlers in a petition filed July 16, 1687, by Nicholas Davis, Nath. Sanders, John Alberry and Daniel Sanders, apply for further concessions.

As to the general character of the residents at Brackish Pond, the home of the early Cox family and descendants to this day, we have the testimony of Joshua Marsden, a Methodist Missionary at the Bermudas in 1800, who says: "Occasionally making an excursion into the country among other islands, preaching at Brackish Pond. * * * My congregations were respectable people, who treated me with attention, politeness and hospitality; but alas! they had need of nothing: they were too polite to treat me rudely, too complaisant to gainsay, and too innocent, moral, and good to need a Savior. At first my principal endeavour was to remove prejudice, that a way might be opened for divine truth in its purest forms. * * * They went to church once a month, and to them the church of England was, in religion what the sun is to the firmament * * * and the best account of their creed I could ever get, was comprised in these two articles: first, doing no harm, and never having done any; second, doing all the good that lay in their power.”

This genealogy begins with John Cox who was at Bermuda in 1663, as owning 49 acres on the island of Eleuthera, the largest of the group. Brackish Pond at that time was the principal settlement, shown in Devonshire Tribe on the sketch of an early map herewith published.

On Aug. 23, 1673, he was a member of "ye Councill of ye Assembly of the Sommer Islands." There is no record of his marriage. It is certain however, that his wife was a dau. or sister of Capt. His brother Jacob in his Will makes no mention of any of this five except Joseph and Isaac, these with Jacob, leaves two unaccounted for. As there is no record of any kind which refers to any children of John except those as here named, the only conclusion is that these two died soon after John made his will.

It is probable that he moved from Nassau, N. P., about 1761, with his family, establishing a home in Philadelphia, Pa., at once, as on Oct. 9, 1761, Isaac Cox of the

In 1779, his City tax was £120.00.0. In 1779, his State tax was £30.00.0. In 1780, the assessed value of his estate was £123.400.00.0, on which taxes were levied to the amount of £246.16.0. In 1781, most of his estate having been divided among his heirs, that which remained had an assessed valuation of £1.500.00.0 on which the tax was the same in 1782.

James S. Cox, soon after his education was completed, entered into partnership with his brother John, and for many years they were successful merchants in the island of Grenada, W. I.
